Minority cell Report

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, regular classes were not held during the academic year 2020-2021. However, recognizing the importance of supporting minority students during these challenging times, an online meeting was convened on August 5, 2020. This meeting was attended by the principal and the convener of the Minority Cell. The primary agenda of the meeting was to plan and implement programs to support minority students amidst the transition to online learning. Strategies were discussed to ensure that minority students had access to necessary resources for remote education, including technological support and internet connectivity. Additionally, the meeting focused on addressing any specific challenges or concerns faced by minority students during the pandemic. It emphasized the importance of maintaining communication channels open to provide continuous support and assistance to minority students throughout the academic year. Despite the absence of regular classes, the Minority Cell remained committed to its mission of advocating for and supporting minority students within the college community. In the academic year 2020-2021, three students were selected for the C H Muhammed Koya Scholarship, with each recipient receiving an amount of Rs. 5,000. This scholarship was designed to provide financial support to deserving minority students, facilitating their educational pursuits. The college's decision to award these scholarships underscores its dedication to assisting minority students in achieving their academic goals.
